

Contents

List of Contributors XVII

1	Introduction	1
	L. Pavesi and R. Turan
	References	4
2	Electronic and Optical Properties of Silicon Nanocrystals	5
	Ceyhan Bulutay and Stefano Ossicini
2.1	Introduction	5
2.2	Electronic Structure and Optical Properties for Small Nanocrystals: Ab Initio Calculation	7
2.2.1	Hydrogenated Silicon Nanocrystals	9
2.2.2	Oxidized Silicon Nanocrystals	11
2.2.3	Doped Silicon Nanocrystals	14
2.2.3.1	Single-Doped Silicon Nanocrystals	14
2.2.3.2	Codoped Silicon Nanocrystals	15
2.2.4	Silicon Nanocrystals Embedded in a SiO ₂ Matrix	18
2.3	Electronic Structure and Optical Properties for Large Nanocrystals: Atomistic Semiempirical Pseudopotential Calculations	22
2.3.1	Effective Optical Gap	24
2.3.2	Radiative Lifetime	25
2.3.3	Linear Optical Absorption	26
2.3.3.1	Interband Absorption	28
2.3.3.2	Intraband Absorption	29
2.3.3.3	Excited State Absorption	30
2.3.4	Third-Order Nonlinear Optical Properties	30
2.3.5	Quantum-Confined Stark Effect in Si Nanocrystals	35
	References	38

3	Optical Properties of Intrinsic and Shallow Impurity-Doped Silicon Nanocrystals	43
	Minoru Fujii
3.1	Introduction	43
3.2	PL Properties of Intrinsic Silicon Nanocrystals	45
3.2.1	Fundamental Properties	45
3.2.2	Effect of Size and Shape Distribution on the PL Bandwidth	48
3.2.3	Resonant Quenching of PL Band Due to Energy Transfer	48
3.2.4	PL Quantum Efficiency of Intrinsic Si Nanocrystals	51
3.3	Shallow Impurity-Doped Si Nanocrystals	53
3.3.1	Preparation of Impurity-Doped Si Nanocrystals	53
3.3.2	PL from B-Doped Si Nanocrystals	54
3.3.3	PL from P-Doped Si Nanocrystals	55
3.3.4	Electron Spin Resonance Studies of Shallow Impurity-Doped Si Nanocrystals	55
3.3.5	Location of Dopant Atoms	57
3.4	P and B Codoped Si Nanocrystals	58
3.4.1	PL Properties of P and B Codoped Si Nanocrystals	59
3.4.2	PL Lifetime of P and B Codoped Si Nanocrystals	62
3.4.3	Codoped But Not Compensated Si Nanocrystals	63
3.5	Summary	63
	References	64
4	Electrical Transport Mechanisms in Ensembles of Silicon Nanocrystallites	69
	I. Balberg
4.1	Introduction	69
4.2	Background	71
4.2.1	Basic Concepts Associated with Transport and Quantum Dots	71
4.2.2	Previous Studies of Transport in Systems of Si	75
4.3	Experimental Details	78
4.4	Experimental Results and Their Interpretation	81
4.4.1	The Low-x Regime	84
4.4.2	The Low-x to Intermediate x Transition Regime	86
4.4.3	The Intermediate-x Regime	87
4.4.4	The Percolation Threshold Regime	89
4.4.5	The High-x Regime	92
4.5	Discussion and Overview	96
	References	101
5	Thermal Properties and Heat Transport in Silicon-Based Nanostructures	105
	Han-Yun Chang and Leonid Tsybeskov
5.1	Introduction	105
5.2	Thermal Conductivity in Bulk Solids and Nanostructures	107

5.2.1	Kinetic Theory: Thermal Properties and Heat Flow	107
5.2.2	Lattice Thermal Conductivity	108
5.2.3	Electronic Thermal Conductivity	112
5.3	Measurements of Thermal Conductivity in Nanostructures	114
5.3.1	The 3ω Method	115
5.3.2	In-Plane Thermal Conductivity Measurements	117
5.3.3	Pump-Probe and Other Optical Measurements	119
5.3.4	Raman Scattering and Thermal Conductivity	120
5.4	Thermal Properties of Si-Based Nanostructures	122
5.4.1	Two- and One-Dimensional Si Nanostructures: Si-on-Insulator and Si Nanowires	122
5.4.2	Epitaxially Grown Si/SiGe Nanostructures: Superlattices and Cluster Multilayers	125
5.4.3	Electrochemically Etched Si (Porous Si)	131
5.4.4	Nanocrystalline Si/SiO ₂ Multilayers	134
5.5	Conclusions	143
	References	145
6	Surface Passivation and Functionalization of Si Nanocrystals	155
	Jonathan Veinot
6.1	Introduction	155
6.2	Functionalizing Freestanding Particles	156
6.3	In Situ Surface Chemistry Tailoring	156
6.4	Aerosol-Based Functionalization	158
6.5	Solution-Based Postsynthetic Modification	158
6.6	Hydrosilylation	161
6.7	Substitutional Approaches to Surface Functionalization	167
6.8	Building on an Oxide Layer	168
6.9	How Many Surface Groups are on the Particle?	169
6.10	Influence of Surface Chemistry	171
6.11	Future Outlook and the Role of Surface Chemistry	171
	References	172
7	Si-nc in Astrophysics	173
	Ingrid Mann	173
7.1	Introduction	173
7.2	Late Stellar Evolution	174
7.3	Interstellar Medium and Dust Evolution	177
7.4	Early Stellar Evolution and Planetary System Formation	181
7.5	Dust in the Solar System	183
7.6	Extended Red Emission and Si Nanoparticles as a Potential Carrier	184
7.7	Formation of Si Nanoparticles under Nonequilibrium Conditions	189
7.8	Conclusions	191
	References	192

8	Size-Controlled Si Nanocrystals using the SiO/SiO₂ Superlattice Approach: Crystallization, Defects, and Optical Properties	195
	Margit Zacharias
8.1	Introduction	195
8.2	Size Control of Si Nanocrystals by the SiO/SiO ₂ Superlattice Approach	196
8.3	Crystallization Behavior	200
8.4	Defects and their Signatures in ESR	206
8.5	Optical Properties	215
8.6	Applications of Si NCs and Concluding Remarks	219
	References	220
9	The Synthesis of Silicon Nanocrystals by Ion Implantation	223
	Robert Elliman
9.1	Introduction	223
9.2	Ion Implantation	224
9.3	Spatial Distribution	226
9.3.1	Ion Range Distributions	226
9.3.2	Multiple Energy Implants	229
9.3.3	High-Fluence Effects	230
9.3.4	Lateral Patterning	231
9.4	Size Distribution	231
9.4.1	Annealing Temperature and Time	232
9.4.1.1	Nucleation and Growth of Nanocrystals	232
9.4.2	Spinodal Decomposition	235
9.4.3	Effect of Surfaces and Interfaces	236
9.4.4	Hot Implants	236
9.4.5	Annealing Ambient	237
9.5	Irradiation Effects	237
9.5.1	Radiation Damage	238
9.5.2	Ion-Beam Mixing	239
9.5.3	Irradiation-Induced Precipitation	240
9.6	Novel Structures and Applications	241
9.6.1	Alloying and Doping	241
9.6.2	Choice of Substrate Material	241
9.6.3	Light-Emitting Diodes	242
9.6.4	Waveguides and All-Optical Amplifiers	242
9.6.5	Nonvolatile Memory	243
9.6.6	Microdisk Resonators and Lasers	243
9.6.7	Photonic Crystal Structures	243
9.7	Summary	244
	References	244

10	Structural and Optical Properties of Silicon Nanocrystals Synthesized by Plasma Enhanced Chemical Vapor Deposition	247
	Fabio Iacona, Giorgia Franzò, Alessia Irrera, Simona Boninelli, and Francesco Priolo
10.1	Introduction	247
10.2	Synthesis, Structure, and Thermal Evolution of SiO _x Films	249
10.3	A Deeper Insight into the Thermal Evolution of SiO _x Films	253
10.4	Room-Temperature PL Properties of Si-ncs	258
10.5	Excitation and De-Excitation Properties of Si-ncs	260
10.6	Correlation between Structural and Optical Properties of Si-ncs	264
10.7	Er-Doped Si Nanoclusters	267
10.8	Summary	271
	References	272
11	Formation of Si-nc by Reactive Magnetron Sputtering	275
	F. Gourbilleau, C. Ternon, C. Dufour, X. Portier, and R. Rizk
11.1	Introduction	275
11.2	Experimental	276
11.3	Results	276
11.3.1	Single Layer	277
11.3.2	Composite Layer	279
11.3.3	Multilayer	283
11.3.3.1	Effect of the Sublayer Thickness	284
11.3.3.2	Effect of the Annealing Temperature	287
11.4	Conclusion	292
	References	292
12	Si and SiC Nanocrystals by Pyrolysis of Sol–Gel-Derived Precursors	297
	Aylin Karakuscu and Gian Domenico Soraru
12.1	The Sol–Gel and PDC Processes	298
12.2	Si nc/SiO ₂ Glasses and Films	300
12.3	(Si-nc + SiC-nc)/SiO ₂ Glasses and Films	302
12.4	Optical properties of Multicomponent Si-C-O-N Ceramics	305
	References	306
13	Nonthermal Plasma Synthesis of Silicon Nanocrystals	309
	Lorenzo Mangolini and Uwe Kortshagen
13.1	Introduction	309
13.2	Basics of Nanocrystal Formation in Plasmas	310
13.2.1	Nanoparticle Nucleation in Nonthermal Plasmas	310
13.2.2	Nanoparticle Charging	312
13.2.3	Nanoparticle Heating in Plasmas	314
13.3	Silicon Nanocrystal Synthesis in Nonthermal Plasmas	317
13.3.1	Experimental Apparatus	318
13.3.2	Nanocrystal Characterization	320

13.3.2.1	TEM Characterization	320
13.3.2.2	Particle Size Distribution	320
13.3.2.3	Nanocrystal Surface Conditions	322
13.3.2.4	Optical Properties of Surface-Oxidized Silicon Nanocrystals	326
13.4	Surface Functionalization of Silicon Nanocrystals	327
13.4.1	Liquid-Phase Functionalization	327
13.4.2	Liquid-Phase Hydrosilylation Procedure	328
13.4.3	Plasma Grafting of Silicon Nanocrystals	330
13.5	Optical Properties of Plasma-Synthesized and Surface-Functionalized Silicon Nanocrystals	337
13.6	Summary and Conclusions	341
	References	342

14 Silicon Nanocrystals in Porous Silicon and Applications 349
Bernard Gelloz

14.1	Introduction	349
14.2	Preparation of Porous Si Layers	350
14.2.1	Porous Si Prepared by Anodization	350
14.2.1.1	Conditions Leading to Porous Si Formation	350
14.2.1.2	Porous Si Formation Mechanism	351
14.2.1.2.1	Electrochemical Etching of Si	351
14.2.1.2.2	Pore Initiation and Propagation in Microporous Si	352
14.2.1.3	Effect of Anodization Conditions	352
14.2.1.4	Local Formation and Patterning of Porous Si	354
14.2.1.5	Anodization Cells	355
14.2.2	Formation of Porous Si Without External Power Supply	355
14.2.2.1	Galvanic Etching	355
14.2.2.2	Electroless Etching	356
14.2.3	Drying of Porous Si	357
14.3	Structural Properties of As-Formed and Modified Porous Si	358
14.3.1	As-Formed Porous Si	358
14.3.2	Oxidation of Porous Si	359
14.3.3	Stabilization of the Porous Si Surface	359
14.4	Physical Properties and Applications of Porous Si	360
14.4.1	Electrical Properties	360
14.4.1.1	Electrical Conduction and Transport	360
14.4.1.2	Electro-Optic Memory	361
14.4.1.3	Sensing Based on Change of Conductivity	361
14.4.1.4	Photodetection	362
14.4.1.5	Ballistic Transport and Applications	362
14.4.1.5.1	Ballistic Electron Emission	362
14.4.1.5.2	Application as Flat Panel Displays	364
14.4.1.5.3	Ballistic Electron Emission in Gas and Liquids	364
14.4.2	Photonics	365
14.4.2.1	Refractive Index and Absorption Coefficient	365

14.4.2.2	Passive Photonic Structures	366
14.4.2.2.1	Waveguides	367
14.4.2.2.2	Manipulation of Light Using Index Modulation	367
14.4.2.3	Active Photonic Structures: Switching, Sensing	371
14.4.2.3.1	Optical Switching	371
14.4.2.3.2	Optical Gas/Liquid/Biomolecule Sensing and Drug Delivery	371
14.4.2.3.3	Nonlinear Properties	372
14.4.3	Luminescence	372
14.4.3.1	Photoluminescence	372
14.4.3.1.1	Characteristics of the S-Band	372
14.4.3.1.2	Photoluminescence Efficiency	374
14.4.3.1.3	Photoluminescence Stabilization	376
14.4.3.2	Energy Transfer, Sensing, and Imaging Using Porous Si Photoluminescence	376
14.4.3.3	Electroluminescence	377
14.4.4	Acoustic and Thermal Properties	379
14.4.4.1	Acoustic Properties and Acoustic Band Crystals	379
14.4.4.1.1	Acoustic Properties of Porous Si	379
14.4.4.1.2	Acoustic Band Crystals	379
14.4.4.2	Thermoacoustic Emission	380
14.5	Conclusions	381
	References	381
15	Silicon Nanocrystal Flash Memory	395
	Shunri Oda and Shaoyun Huang
15.1	Introduction	395
15.1.1	Challenges in Silicon Flash Memory Technology	395
15.1.2	Emerging nc-Si Flash Memory Devices	397
15.1.3	Outline	398
15.2	Structure of nc-Si Flash Memory	399
15.2.1	nc-Si Memory Structures	399
15.2.2	Representative nc-Si Memory Structures	401
15.2.2.1	Storing Charges with Multiple nc-Si Dots	401
15.2.2.2	Storing Charges with Single nc-Si Dot	402
15.2.3	Summary	404
15.3	Fabrication Methodologies	404
15.3.1	Fabrication of nc-Si Dots	404
15.3.1.1	Top-Down Methodology	405
15.3.1.2	Bottom-Up Methodology	405
15.3.2	Memory Cell Fabrications	407
15.3.3	Summary	410
15.4	Characteristics of nc-Si Flash Memory	410
15.4.1	Memory Operations	411
15.4.2	Interfacial States	414

- 15.4.3 Retention Characteristics with Electron Charge, Storage, and Discharge 417
- 15.4.4 Characteristics Improvements of the nc-Si Flash Memory 420
- 15.4.5 Operation Speed and Device Reliability 431
- 15.4.6 Summary 434
- 15.5 Comparisons of Emerging Nonvolatile Memory Devices 434
- 15.5.1 Silicon Nanocrystals Flash Memory and Other Types of Nonvolatile Memory 435
- 15.5.2 Silicon Nanocrystals Memory Devices and Other Quantum Dot Memory Devices 436
- 15.5.3 Summary 437
- 15.6 Concluding Remarks and Prospects 437
- References 438

16 Photonics Application of Silicon Nanocrystals 445

- A. Anopchenko, N. Daldosso, R. Guider, D. Navarro-Urrios, A. Pitanti, R. Spano, Zhizhong Yuan, and L. Pavesi*
- 16.1 Introduction to Silicon Nanophotonics 445
 - 16.2 Nanosilicon Waveguides and Resonators 447
 - 16.2.1 General Properties 447
 - 16.2.2 Si-nc Slot Waveguides 450
 - 16.2.3 Ring Resonators Based on Slot Waveguides 451
 - 16.3 Nanosilicon Cavity-Based Devices 453
 - 16.3.1 Slow-Wave Devices 454
 - 16.3.2 Si-nc Active Microdisks 456
 - 16.4 Si-nc-Based Visible Optical Amplifiers 457
 - 16.5 Nanosilicon-Based Infrared Optical Amplifiers 461
 - 16.6 Nanosilicon-Based LED and Solar Cells 465
 - 16.6.1 Si-nc-Based LED 465
 - 16.6.2 Si-nc-Based Solar Cells 469
 - 16.7 Nanosilicon Nonlinear Optical Properties and Devices 473
 - 16.8 Conclusions 477
 - References 477

17 Lighting Applications of Rare Earth-Doped Silicon Oxides 487

- T. Roschuk, J. Li, J. Wojcik, P. Mascher, and I. Calder*
- 17.1 Solid-State Lighting: A Basic Introduction 488
 - 17.2 Luminescence of Rare Earth-Doped Silicon-Based Materials 490
 - 17.3 White Light Emitting Si-Based Device Structures 501
 - 17.4 Fabrication of RE-Doped Silicon-Based Layers for SSL 503
 - 17.5 Conclusions and Future Outlook 504
 - References 505

18	Biomedical and Sensor Applications of Silicon Nanoparticles	507
	E. Borsella, M. Falconieri, N. Herlin, V. Loschenov, G. Miserocchi, Y. Nie, I. Rivolta, A. Ryabova, and D. Wang
18.1	Introduction	507
18.2	Synthesis and Surface Engineering of Si Nanoparticles for Bioapplications	509
18.2.1	Synthesis and Optical Properties of Si Nanoparticles	509
18.2.2	Surface Functionalization of Luminescent Si NPs for Bioapplications	512
18.2.2.1	Alkali–Acid Etching of Si NPs	512
18.2.2.2	Surface Modification of Si NPs by Silanization	513
18.2.2.3	Surface Modification of Si NPs via Hydrosilylation	514
18.3	Biointeraction of Si-Based Nanoparticles	516
18.3.1	Cell Viability	517
18.3.2	Genotoxicity	518
18.3.3	Overall Cell Monolayer Electrical Resistance	519
18.3.4	Effect of NP Size	519
18.3.5	In Vitro and In Vivo Comparative Studies	523
18.3.6	Exposure Risks	524
18.4	Applications of Si NPs in Biomedicine	524
18.5	Si Nanoparticle-Based Sensors	530
18.6	Conclusions	531
	References	532
19	Nanosilicon-Based Explosives	537
	D. Clément and D. Kovalev
19.1	Introduction	537
19.2	Properties and Applications of Porous Silicon and Its Compounds as Energetic Materials	538
19.2.1	Production of Porous Silicon	538
19.2.2	Stabilization of Porous Silicon Surface	542
19.3	Reaction Properties of Porous Silicon with Oxidizers	545
19.3.1	Infiltration of the Pores with Different Oxidizers	545
19.3.2	Mechanical Mixing of Porous Silicon Powder with Oxidizers	552
19.4	Conclusions	553
	References	554
20	Applications of Si Nanocrystals in Photovoltaic Solar Cells	555
	Gavin Conibeer
20.1	Introduction: Reasons for Application to Solar Cells	555
20.1.1	Limits of Single-Bandgap Cells	555
20.1.2	Solar Cells with Multiple Energy Levels	556
20.2	Properties of Si Nanocrystals Relevant to Solar Cells	557
20.2.1	Solid-Phase Formation of Si Nanocrystals	557
20.2.2	Quantum Confinement in Si QD Nanostructures	559

20.2.3	Carrier Tunneling Transport in Si QD Superlattices	562
20.3	The “All-Si” Tandem Cell: Si Nanostructure Tandem Cells	563
20.3.1	Alternative Matrices for Si QDs	564
20.3.1.1	Si Quantum Dots in a Silicon Nitride Matrix	564
20.3.1.2	Silicon QD Nanocrystals Embedded in Silicon Carbide Matrix	566
20.3.2	Doping of Si QD Arrays	566
20.3.2.1	Phosphorus Doping of Si Nanostructures	567
20.3.2.2	Boron Doping of Si Nanostructures	568
20.3.2.3	Doping Mechanisms	569
20.3.3	Fabrication of Si QD PV Devices	570
20.3.3.1	Si QDs in SiO ₂ Solar Cell	570
20.3.3.2	Si QDs in SiC Solar Cell	571
20.4	Intermediate Level Cells: Intermediate Band and Impurity Photovoltaic cell	572
20.5	Multiple Carrier Excitation Using Si QDs	573
20.6	Hot Carrier Cells	574
20.6.1	Photoluminescence of Si QD ESCs	575
20.6.2	Negative Differential Resistance in Si QD ESCs	577
20.6.3	A Complete Hot Carrier Cell	578
20.7	Conclusions	578
	References	579
21	Characterization of Si Nanocrystals	583
	S. Yerci, I. Dogan, A. Seyhan, A. Gencer, and R. Turan
21.1	Introduction	583
21.2	Imaging	584
21.2.1	Si Nanocluster Imaging by Transmission Electron Microscopy Techniques	584
21.2.2	Transmission Electron Microscopy	584
21.2.3	Electron Energy Loss Spectroscopy	585
21.2.4	Energy Filtered Transmission Electron Microscopy (EFTEM)	587
21.2.5	Si Nanocluster Imaging by Atomic Force Microscopy	588
21.3	Identification and Quantification of Nanocrystals	590
21.3.1	Raman Spectroscopy	590
21.3.2	Identification of the Nanocrystals	591
21.3.3	Size Estimation of the Nanocrystals	591
21.3.4	Stress Estimation on Nanocrystals	593
21.3.5	Phase Determination of the Nanocrystals	594
21.3.6	X-Ray Diffraction Analysis of Nanocrystals	594
21.3.7	Method of Integral Breadths	597
21.3.8	Method of Warren–Abervach	598
21.3.9	X-Ray Photoelectron Spectroscopy	598
21.4	Looking at the Nanocluster’s Surrounding	602

21.4.1	Fourier Transform Infrared Spectroscopy	602
21.5	Optical Techniques	606
21.5.1	Photoluminescence Spectroscopy	606
	References	609

Index	613
--------------	------------

