3 Volume Set

JEAN-MICHEL KORNPROBST

This encyclopedic treatise is an updated and significantly expanded version of a very successful French edition. It contains an exhaustive listing of marine natural products and adopts a unique approach in classifying the compounds by the biological species they are derived from. It also provides background information on the respective species. The work covers more than 8,700 formula, 14,000 references, 650 websites on 1,600 pages.

Indispensable for marine biologists and chemists exploring natural products, as well as for the pharmaceutical and food industries and the agribusiness.

The Encyclopedia of Marine Natural Products 3 Volume Set has been translated from French by T.B. Tam Ha, a former researcher of Professor Carl Djerassi who worked several years on marine steroids at Stanford; she is currently Assistant-Professor at the Faculty of Pharmacy, University of Toulouse, France.

Jean-Michel Kornprobst worked for over 30 years on the chemical analysis of marine natural products, first in Dakar, Senegal, and later in Nantes, France. He received his Ph.D. in chemical engineering at the University of Lyon and is currently emeritus at the University of Nantes, where he headed the laboratory of marine Chemistry.
